Why Constipation Injures.
The bowels are the natural sewerage system of the body. When they become obstructed by constipation a part of the potassium matter which they should carry off is absorbed into the system, you feel dull and stupid, and interfering with the digestion and assimilation of food. This condition is quickly relieved by Chamberlain's Tablets. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

FRIDAY EVENING, APR. 14, 1916.

OUR CANDIDATE.

Every consideration of political welfare and patriotic duty demands that the Republican party shall this year ignore unworthy ambitions, frown upon faction and approach the business of nominating its candidate for President unaided solely by a worthy desire to select its greatest ability and highest statesmanship. Senator Penrose is accused of being a politician and a boor, yet in a speech at Lancaster a few nights ago he said:

In the enumeration of principles and the selection of candidates for the national convention, I will assemble all the able men from the nation, and the Republican party must subordinate every personal interest or petty conflict of opinion that stands in the way to the performance of its duty. Never before has there been more pressure exerted upon our party to nominate that which will represent the best thought and broadest-minded opinion of the Republican voters of the nation.

With the opportunity of initiating his policy of movements, the party claimed to be able to say that this aim seems to be paramount from one end of the country to the other among Republican leaders. Does the national party meet subordinates every personal interest or petty conflict of opinion that stands in the way to the performance of its duty. Never before has there been more pressure exerted upon our party to nominate that which will represent the best thought and broadest-minded opinion of the Republican voters of the nation.

The Republican party contains within its ranks many trained and courageous statesmen and their qualifications should be a matter of credit to the nation.

One suggestion to stand out above all others is that is that the country will require in the executive office a man of training and intimate familiarity with the business of the federal government and its affairs. This is not the time to entrust these vast responsibilities to anyone who is not an expert in governmental matters.

The Republican party which contained in 1908 is now rapidly declining. Republicans are uniting together with the single thought of saving the country from the ignorance, incompetence and infamy of the Wilson administration.

Not only is it the desire of the Republicans to present a strong candidate, but it is their purpose to give the nominees of the convention their united and hearty support. Candidates are warned that their ambitions must be settled at the primary and in the convention, and that in 1916 there will be no successful appeal from that decision. There will be no grounds for any bolt and no votes for any bolter. Even Colonel Roosevelt recognizes this fact.

The Courier believes it would be better if neither Taft nor Roosevelt were nominees on the ticket this year, but in common with all good Republicans it is prepared to support the nominee of the Republican convention.

First Chief Carranza has ordered the American troops out of Mexico, saying he never gave his consent that they should enter. Carranza is a candidate for the American Club. He gave his consent all right, but he finds that the American movement is highly unpopular and he wants to get out from under it before Villa is elected Big Chief.

Connellsville seems to have autos to burn.

The Commissioners have come to an agreement on the road question and the Controller will no longer oppose the giving out of the contracts. Road improvement in this section is booked to begin as soon as the contractors can get ready. Good road masters will have to look after them from this time on.

Connellsville is prosperous. She has declared a dividend.

Silos promised to play the Prodigal Son act. Before we kill the fatted calf we ought to try to half-kill some of the vain Pretenders.

The Wild Litters are making lots of Tame Deer.

The Courier is at a great deal of trouble and some cost in collecting the statistics of the Connellsville coke trade and it cannot understand why its local contemporaries persistently refuse to give the proper credit when using the figures. Such credit is always extended by the trade papers and the large dailies which use the data from week to week.

Superintendent Little took Councilman John Dugan up on the high mountain and showed him what the water company had at McCoy reservoir, but he didn't put any price on it.

The public will agree with Judge Work in the opinion that every Civil War veteran should have a headstone as handsome as his estate permits.

If Governor Brumbaugh thought he was eliminating William A. Magee from politics by appointing him to the head of the Public Service Commission he was mistaken. But perhaps the Governor did not intend to eliminate Magee, but to retain him as a helping hand.

Another woman claims to be the wife of Harry Thaw. It's no wonder Harry has lost interest in the fair sex.

After fifteen years of hesitation on the part of manufacturers, steel rails have been advanced from $28 to $32 per ton.

Thomas Henry Brown of Vanderbilt complains that the Helping Hand gave him an awful push.

The Dickerson Run grade crossing will soon be a thing of the past. It will cost the county over $5,000, but it is cheap at the price.

It will not be necessary for the oil trust to dry that the water main is being extended to its Connellsville depot for the purpose of watering its oil or its stock.

The High School will celebrate the approval of the bond issue and the construction of a new school building of noble proportions and classic design by playing a return engagement of Shakespeare.

It must keep the du Ponts busy rebuilding their powder mills.

A landslide occurs on Grove street in front of the school building.

F. E. Marcell & Brother of Monongahela City open their new drug store in the Greenwood block.

The Courier issues a 6-page number, take care of a rush of advertising.

A suggestion that merchants continue the S. P. M. closing hour is received as "the height of folly."

A committee of council consisting of J. T. McCormick, J. S. McClellan and L. T. Russell complete a revision of the borough ordinances, eliminating some old and reporting some new ones. One of the latter places an embargo on hogs, cows and geese from running at large. Leafers, swinging signs, wooden awnings and unsightly steps and sidewalk obstructions are prohibited. Licenses for peddling are issued only on request of residents. Interments in the old graveyard are forbidden.

At the Appomattox celebration John Hill impersonates a bushwhacker and charges the camp. Being captured he is haled before Comrade L. E. Angell who, after certain formalities, administers the "fumanty" oath to the culprit.

J. T. McCormick resigns as a member of council and a committee consisting of R. Marlett and J. S. McClellan is appointed to wait upon him and ask the withdrawal of his resignation.

Connellsville voters, 270 to 26, to allow dogs to be kept and reared with corporate limits. Persons pronouncing the opposition of hog culture within the borough are persuaded by an enthusiastic procession headed by a squeaking porker.

FRIDAY, APRIL 17, 1896.

Detailed report of the coke trade for the week ending April 11, shows a total of 15,947 ovens in the region, of which 11,436 are in blast and 6,511 idle, with an estimated production of 117,084 tons.

Shipments for the week aggregated 6,487 cars, consigned as follows: To Pittsburgh, 2,153 cars; to points West, 5,440 cars; to points East, 901 cars, a decrease of 253 cars from the previous week.

The price of coke remains firm at $2.40 and the outlook is encouraging for a brisk summer trade.

Congressman E. F. Acheson is renominated by a wide margin over John P. Elorhart.

A number of Slavish immigrants land here from an infested vessel and a lively smallpox scare ensues for a few days. The Board of Health acts promptly and corralls and quarantines the suspects.

J. R. Bulley, R. S. Faine, F. E. Marcell and Cyrus Echard secure the exclusive rights for the state of Indiana for Edmonson's refined violin.

OVER $1,000,000
WORTH OF BRIQUETS
MADE DURING 1915

The Largest Output in the U. S. for Any Year Except 1914.

INDUSTRY IS NOT DEVELOPED

Mechanical difficulties have been overcome but the business now depends upon establishing other than local markets for the product.

Over a million dollars worth of briquets were made out of waste coal dust in 1915, the exact production being 221,537 short tons, valued at $1,035,716. This was the largest output in the United States for any year with the exception of 1914. The manufacture of this type of fuel is, however, still in its infancy, and according to C. E. Lecher, of the United States Geological Survey, a good many years will probably elapse before the briquet industry assumes very large proportions.

The work of preparing this low-grade material and converting it into fuel suitable for higher uses is, however, practicable conservation and as such deserves far more attention than it now receives in this country. European countries, more thrifty in their use of coal, have developed the briquetting industry to a large proportion. Most of the mechanical problems of manufacturing have been solved in this country and the future growth of the industry now depends upon the development of markets for the product. The producing plants are, however, so widely distributed and the total production is so small compared with that of other kinds of fuel that the conditions affecting the market for the output of each plant are more or less local and peculiar.

In general, in the east, briquets compete with anthracite as domestic fuel, and nearly all the output of the eastern plants is manufactured from anthracite coal. The people in the eastern states, accustomed to incomparably anthracite, have not taken very kindly to these briquets, which largely because of the volume of tarry smoke given off by nearly all kinds of briquets when they are first ignited, and perhaps partly because it has not been possible to offer them at a price enough lower than that of anthracite to induce their extended use. Being made from the cheaper sort of anthracite, the briquets contain a greater amount of ash than the domestic ones, and although this ash does not clinker in the furnace it reduces the heat value of the fuel.

There were 16 briquetting plants in operation in the United States in 1915, or less than in 1914. One new plant in California reported no output in 1915, and 2 plants, 1 in New Jersey, and 1 in New York, ceased operations. The greatest increase in output was made on the Pacific coast, the central states recording little change and the eastern states a large decline in output.

WHISKEY? NO.
NOT FOR RHEUMATICS

Don't drink whiskey if you have rheumatism, and be sure to keep your feet warm and dry, and drink plenty of lemonade.

This advice, says an authority, is helping; but as all know who have suffered, rheumatism is a stubborn disease and yields only to a remedy mighty enough to conquer it.

Many doctors have proscribed and hundreds of helpful druggists have advised half teaspooonful of Rheuma once a day, because they know that powerful Rheuma, harmless as it is, acts with speed and overcomes in a few days the most torturing case of rheumatism or sciatica.

Try Rheuma; A. A. Clarke and all druggists sell lots of it and will return your money if it will not stop all rheumatic misery. —Adv.

PENNSYLVANIA'S OUTPUT

Of Coal in 1915 Greater Than of Entire United States in 1900.

The production of coal in Pennsylvania and bituminous was 240,787,398 net tons, or 157,407,618 tons, or 4 per cent. Of this, 100,157,618 tons was bituminous, compared with 146,825,721 tons, an increase of 12,611,937 tons, or 7.3 per cent.

Only a short time prior to the opening of the present century, the entire output of coal in the United States was no greater than the present-day tonnage of Pennsylvania, the annual figure for 1892 standing at 253,731,192 tons, while in 1898 the tonnage was 219,078,287, as against Pennsylvania's output of something more than 236,000,000 tons. Indeed, we have to go back only to 1890, says the Coal Trade Journal, to find that the present bituminous tonnage alone of Pennsylvania would match the total business of the United States, or nearly so, the total output in that year standing at 157,724,963 tons. And with this anthracite tonnage is often reckoned as only a portion of the output of a single state and not a very large item, it is now much more than equal to the total production of coal in the entire country no further back than 1881, when the aggregate output was 85,581,030 net tons.

Truly these figures show how great has been the increased demand for coal, as we have often said before, never mind unless there is the practically none remaining in it over a year.

Rate Re-Suspended.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has re-suspended from April 12 to October 13 proposed increase of five cents a ton on bituminous coal from Indiana and Illinois, voted to points in Wisconsin, Michigan and other Interstate points. Previously the advanced rate which the railroads proposed to make were suspended pending investigation and hearing of the commission from December 15 last to April 13.

GLOBE THEATRE.

THE DIAMOND FROM THE SKY
The last episode of the famous serial, "The Diamond From the Sky" will be presented at the Sonson Theatre today. Little Pickford has been the star of this attraction and has sustained her part well. Harry Meyers and Rosemary Thoby are featured today in the two reel Victor comedy, "A Model Husband." It is an amusing depiction of the downfall of a supposed model husband who had a "sticker from the west," and a dramatic comedy conflict and lost his wife on the sky. The laudable drama, "The Blackmailers," has Rupert Julian and little Zoo Beck in the cast. It is a thrilling drama of a crook who was caught. The Animated Weekly has come from Pittsburgh's celebration of the town's year as a city. Violinist Steiner trying to pick a crook hat, the world champion, Jess Willard, and other novelties. Tomorrow the World Film Corporation present the popular actor, Carlyle Blackwell in the five reel success, "The Clue." Mr. Blackwell appears in the part of the young newspaper editor who fails to live up to his name. The scenes are laid in fashionable New York society and ample opportunity is given to display many beautiful evening gowns. The company journeyed to New York especially to get the scenes in the slums. The photoplay is of unusual merit. Monday, "The Blindness of Love," a Metro production in five acts, will be featured.

DUE TO TANLAC

Maria Schulz Tells of Remarkable Recovery
Through Master Medicine.

"I feel twenty years younger and sleep like a log when I go to bed," said Maria Schulz, of Grantland Street, North Side, Pittsburgh, Pa., since I began to take Tanlac.

"I had suffered for a long time with rheumatism, gas in my stomach, shortness of breath and my bowels were always giving me trouble."

"I often went for days at a time without sleeping, because of my terrible nervous condition."

"So I got a bottle. I had no idea it would get such quick relief. After I had taken about half a bottle, the rheumatic pains left my limbs. My stomach got so good that I could eat my meals and never feel bad afterward. My bowels got regular. When I would lie down at night, my head would hardly touch the pillow until I would be fast asleep. When I awoke in the morning, I felt rested and could hardly believe it was myself."

Ross Snyder of New Centerville, is seriously ill of pneumonia, this being the second attack of the disease within the year. His condition is reported to be slightly improved.

Daniel Earle Miller has returned home after spending several days with friends at Chicago Junction, O.

TRIED VARIOUS KIDNEY REMEDIES BUT ONLY ONE PROVED RELIABLE

It is with great pleasure that I write these lines of thanks for your wonderful kidney and bladder remedy. I had kidney trouble so bad I became very much alarmed. I had tried various kidney remedies I heard of but without relief. I was about discouraged of ever being helped, when one day I picked up a book containing testimonials of people who had been helped and cured of their kidney trouble by the use of Dr. Kline's Swamp Root, so I decided to try it and I know I owe my present good health to the wonderful curative power of Swamp Root. I sincerely hope my words will be the means of restoring many other sufferers of kidney and bladder troubles to good health.

Found Simple Remedy
That Relieved Child*Mild Laxative Compound
Corrects Stubborn Case of Indigestion.

An important duty that devolves on parents is the regulation of their children's health. Health in later life depends on large measure on early training and should therefore be taught to infancy to regulate habits. When from any cause the bowel becomes congested with stomach waste a mild laxative should be employed to open up the passage gently and carry off the congested mass. A most effective remedy for this purpose is the combination of simple laxative herbs known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint. Mrs. W. D. Buin, of Reed, Okla., used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint for her baby boy, Harley Burn Bunn, and says: "I did him more good than anything we have given him. His bowels are very stubborn about moving, but they act easily every time I give him Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint."

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Peppermint contains no opiate or narcotic drug and is a splendid remedy for children and older people as well. It has been on the market for more than twenty-five

BAD STOMACH?
ONE DOSE OF
MAYR'S Wonderful Remedy
Should Convince You That Your Suffering Is Unnecessary.

INDOOR LIFE MAKES FAT

Try Oil of Koren to Keep Weight
Down or to Reduce Superfluous Fat.

People who are confined within doors and who are deprived of fresh invigorating air and exercise must take precaution to guard against over-stomach, as fat acquired by indoor life is unhealthy and a danger to the vital organs of the body. Lack of exercise in the fresh air is said to weaken the oxygen carrying power of the blood, so that it is unable to produce strong muscles and vitality and the result is an unhealthily and unhealthy fat in the system.

If you are 15 or 20 pounds above normal weight you are daily drawing on your reserve strength and are constantly lowering your vitality by carrying this excess burden. Any person who is satisfied in their own mind that they are too stout are advised to go to A. A. Clarke a good druggist and get a bag of oil of koren capsules, and take one after each meal and one just before retiring at night. Even in a few days treatment has been reported to show a noticeable reduction in weight and improved digestion and a return of the old energy. You become lighter and the skin less fleshy. In appearance an superbulous fat disappears.

Oil of koren is inexpensive, cannot injure, and helps the digestion. Any person who wants to reduce 15 or 20 pounds is advised to give this treatment a trial.—Adv.

WANTS UNITED STATES STEEL CORPORATION SUIT ENDED

Financial Interests See That It Is Resounding Industrial Development in Many Places.

The decision of the Supreme Court to require the government to pay its bill against the United States Steel Corporation without further delay has met a responsive echo in Wall Street, says the New York correspondent of the Manufacturers' Record. The protracted litigation had done more to keep alive as the front an element of uncertainty over steel and other things. It has held up many important projects and has cost the individual sections of the country, and especially the South, millions in money and labor of waiting.

Now that it would appear that the Supreme Court is to grant no more postponements, there would seem to be a reasonable chance for the case to reach its conclusion in time for the United States Steel Corporation to carry out this calendar year a part of its long-delayed plan for improving its steel plants in the Birmingham district.

Gently, or strongly, the financial district believes that the government is destined to lose its suit for the dissolution of the great corporation, and it regards every step taken which tends to removing the admitted butchering development of Southern enterprises.

Because of the present conditions in the iron and steel trade, both for domestic and export orders, any method of enlarging productive capacity means immediate heavy losses in profit. This is notably true of the situation in the South, where some of the firms there have begun booking plumb orders for 1917 despite the unprecedented demands on steel-making capacity have assumed all the features of a runaway market.

If the United States Steel Corporation could soon know definitely what the outcome of the government's suit against it would be, the entire reconstruction program for the year possibly would be greatly increased.

COAL AND COKE TONNAGE

Of the Pennsylvania Railroad Showed a Big Increase in February.

Shipments of coke over the Pennsylvania railroad in the month of February amounted to 1,129,903 tons compared with 741,102 tons during the same month last year, an increase of 388,801 tons or 51.1 per cent., while compared with same month of 1914 there was an increase of 38.8 per cent. For the first two months of this year shipments amounted to 2,521,335 tons, namely 1,125,235 tons last year, an increase of 836,100 tons or 62.8 per cent., and 1,606,502 tons in 1914, an increase of 39.8 per cent. Shipments of bituminous coal amounted to 4,201,193 tons compared with 3,029,056 tons during the same month last year, an increase of 1,172,138 tons or 38.7 per cent., while compared with same month of 1914 the increase this year amounts to 27.4 per cent. For the two months of 1915 tonnage exceeded amount to 8,515,990 tons, namely with 6,627,011 tons during the same period of last year—an increase of 1,638,983 tons, or 24.4 per cent., while compared with two months of 1914 the increase was 19.2 per cent.

BEFORE ADAM

JACK LONDON

Copyright, 1907, by the MacMillan company.

But the Chatterer. His whole home life a burden for both my mother and me, and by home life I mean not the lonely nest in the tree, but the group life of the three of us. He was most unkindly in his treatment of me. That was the one purpose to which he held steadfastly for longer than she indicated; also as that went by my mother was less eager in her defense of me. I think what of the continuance now raised by the Chatterer that I must have become a nuisance to her. At any rate the situation went from bad to worse so rapidly that I should soon of my own will have left home. But the settling down of permanent so-calledness an act far delayed me. Before I was ready to go I was thrown out. And I made this its result.

The opportunity came to the Chatterer one day when I was alone in the nest. My mother and the Chatterer had gone away together toward the timberings again. I, however, have planned the whole thing, for I heard them returning alone through the forest, together with self-satisfied glee at having, I suppose, all the men of our house when they were away or were trying to make themselves away, had stepped over and made themselves sit on my chest with like a.

I realized the helplessness of my situation and crept up quietly to the tree-trunk entrance. It was an oak-tree and began to climb up. And he never ceased for a moment from his tormenting. As I have said, our language was extremely meager, and he must have scolded it by the variety of ways in which he informed me of his understanding of me and of its intention there and then to have it out with me.

He climbed to the fork I fled out the great horizontal limb. He followed me and out I went, farther and farther. At last I ran out amongst the swift twigs and leaves. The Chatterer was never a coward, and greater always than any other he ever worked up was his exertion. He was afraid to follow

I remember that several times I came to open spaces. These I crossed in great trepidation, descending to the ground and running at the top of my speed. I remember that there were days of rain and days of sunshine, so that I must have wandered alone for quite a time. I especially dreamt of hunting little mammals on the rocky top of an open knoll. They ran under the rocks, and most of them escaped, but occasionally I turned over a stone and caught one. I was frightened away from the knoll by snakes. They did not pursue me. They were mostly basking on flat rocks in the sun. But such was my inherited fear of them that I fled as fast as if they had been after me.

Then I crawled bitter back from rotting trees. I remember vaguely the eating of many green nuts with soft shells and milky kernels. And I remembered most distinctly suffering from a stomach ache. It may have been caused by the green nuts and maybe by the lizards. I do not know. But I do know that I was fortunate in not being devoured during the several hours I was knotted up on the ground with the cold.

My vision of the scene came abruptly as I emerged from the forest. I found myself on the edge of a large clear space. On one side of this space rose high bluffs. On the other side was the river. The earth bank ran steeply down to the water, but here and there in several places, where at some time slides of earth had occurred, there were runways. These were the drinking places of the folk that lived in the village.

And this was the main abiding place of the folk that I had chance upon. This was, I may say, by stretching the word, the village. My mother and the Chatterer and I and a few other simple bodies were what might be termed suburban residents. We were part of the hosts, though we lived a distance away from it. It was only a short distance, though it had taken me what of my wonderous all of a week to arrive. Had I come directly I could have covered the trip in an hour.

But it returned. From the edge of the forest I saw the caves in the bluff, the open spaces and the runways to the drinking places. And in the open space lay many of the folk, old and young, healthy and sick, resting the broken frame. But there were no withered faces, nor aged, nor palsied, nor crippled, nor palsied, nor palsied.

It was the time to destroy my dreams, the time to start being sufficient to take care of the world and economy in an independent way. So here I sat, the Chatterer, the mother, and I, keeping them to a minimum, and the world, I quickly understood, was not going to be any better for the lack of the trees, and I knew that the lack of trees of importance would be the chiefest trouble for the world, and that I had better get out of the world.

Despondent and beaten and whimpering, I lay where I had fallen. Pending on. Through the bushes I could see the Chatterer. He had set up a demon in his head, and he was keeping them to a minimum, and the world, I quickly understood, was not going to be any better for the lack of the trees, and I knew that the lack of trees of importance would be the chiefest trouble for the world, and that I had better get out of the world.

A moment later I closed my eyes, and I lay down that I had no desire to watching the stars, and I was comforted by partially closing my eyes, and my tear wet eyes. When I lay to my mother and said that I was not so very badly damaged by my fall, it had to some audience I had, here and there. The sheep and lambs and a flock of birds had their tails all stuck into my sleeves and my right hip, which had torn the hem of my coat with the ground, and a splinter had got into my eye. The mothers uttered exasperated and angry cries, which were recognized by the young ones. Thus had my mother been there calling to

Nest, as I lay in the bushes there

How to Feel Well During Middle Life Told by Three Women Who Learned from Experience.

The Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Read these letters:

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I started the Change of Life five years ago. I always had a headache and backache with bearing down pains and I would have heat flashes very bad at times with dizzy spells and nervous feelings. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new person and am in better health and no more troubled with the aches and pains I had before I took your wonderful remedy. I recommend it to my friends for I cannot speak it enough."—Mrs. MARGARET GRASSMAN, 709 N. Kingwood St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Beverly, Mass.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nervousness and dyspepsia, when I was going through the Change of Life. I found it very helpful and I have always spoken of it to other women who suffer as I did and had them try it and they also have received good results from it."—Mrs. GEORGE A. DUNBAR, 17 Roundy St., Beverly, Mass.

Erie, Pa.—"I was in poor health when the Change of Life started with me and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I think I should not have got over it as easy as I did. Even now if I do not feel good I take the Compound and it restores me in a short time. I will praise your remedies to every woman for it may help them as it has me."—Mrs. E. WHEN YOU NEED

MORE FURNACES IN BLAST IN MARCH THAN IN 8½ YEARS

Production for the Month Makes the Newest High Record.

FURNACE OUTPUT INCREASED

By Improvements in Design of New Stacks and Better Methods of Operation of Old Ones; The Non-Mechanized Plants Show Greater Gains.

With the largest number of blast furnaces in blast during any month in the last eight and a half years, March established the newest record for monthly output of coke and anthracite pig iron, as shown by figures compiled by The Iron Trade Review. The production in March was 3,326,879 tons, as compared with the previous high record of 3,291,960 tons established in December. The March production exceeded any previous month by 125,000 tons, or one-eighth million tons. The record is all the more remarkable in view of unsatisfactory weather conditions during March, and more particularly in the case of the coal campaign that most of the stacks have seen during the past year.

The output last month exceeded that of the previous month by 28,221 tons, the production in February being 3,078,619 tons. The gain in the monthly daily output was less, however, due to the fewer days in February. The average output in March was 107,319 tons, against 106,177 tons in February, a gain of 1,142 tons. A new record is thus established for a single daily production, February holding the title for just one month.

The iron and steel mills in blast gave a great deal to the men whose researches and studies are resulting in very many important advances in the blast furnace practice. The extent of this utilization is realized by comparing production figures for October, 1907, when 314 stacks were active, and last month when 315 were in blast. The production in the earlier period was 2,353,000 tons, against 3,263,570 tons last month, a difference of practically 1,000,000 tons, or about 45 per cent. While much of this gain reflects merely the increase in furnace capacities, the bulk of the credit must go to the men who have necessarily increased their furnace capacity, but have brought about big increases in the output of old stacks.

The gain was made largely by the steel works of non-merchant furnaces. The output of non-merchant iron in March was 2,408,750 tons compared with 2,308,155 tons in February, a gain of 200,691 tons. The average daily production of the steel works furnaces in March was 77,702 tons against 76,145 tons in February, a gain of 1,557 tons. The merchant furnaces produced 889,723 tons in March against 811,080 tons in February, a gain of 78,643 tons. This gain, however, resulted entirely from the additional number of days in March, as the average daily output of merchant iron shows a loss last month. The average output per day of the merchant furnaces in March was 28,692 tons, and in February 29,033 tons, a loss last month of exactly 400 tons.

The net gain in active stacks, comparing the day of March with February, was three. Again, this gain was made by the steel works furnaces, four of which blew in, while one blew out. Of the merchant furnaces, two blew in and two blew out. In total the 315 active stacks compare with 312 on the last day of February.

The production of iron in March was 18,762 tons against 21,071 tons in February, a loss of 2,309 tons. The output of pig iron last month was 12,667, compared with 8,219 tons in February, a gain of 4,448 tons.

The merchant furnaces blown in were: One Water, Virginia Iron, Coke & Coke Company, and Cokelock No. 2. Those blown out were Keystone Reading Iron Company, and Anna, Struthers Furnace Company. This last furnace will be refined and repaired, probably resuming operations about June 15.

The steel works furnaces blown in were: Minnequa "B," Colorado Fuel & Iron Company; Gary No. 3; one Mingo and Steubenville, Carnegie Steel Company; One Donora, American Steel & Wire Company, was blown out.

SHOWS TRAINMEN'S PAY

B. & O. Claims They Are Paid Higher Than Other Employers.

In support of the claim of the railroads that the earnings of organized trainmen concerned in the movement to secure increases of approximately 25 per cent in their regular wages and of 37½ per cent for overtime through the basic 8-hour day, with time and half-time for overtime, are already higher than the wages of any other class of transportation employee, and larger than any other class of industrial workers in the world, the Baltimore & Ohio has prepared a statement from its pay rolls for October, 1915, showing the monthly pay of the highest five employees in the different classes of service on each division of the system.

On the Connellsville division five engineers in passenger service earned from $223.25 to $149.30 for the month; freight engineers from $204.45 to $193.15; yard engineers from $129.50 to $126.75; passenger conductors from $102.50 to $100.50. The men earning $102.50 received from the company $10. According to the agreement with Brotherhood to be guaranteed $125 as a minimum monthly wage unless he remains out of service voluntarily, freight conductors, $181.10 to $161.25; and yard conductors from $147.60 to $127.55. The figures include all the branch lines of the Connellsville division.

Safe Medicine for Children.
It is often the first question to me, considered when having such inquiries for children. An infant's throat trouble has long been a factor to me with mothers of young children as it contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. It is pleasant to take, whether it is of great importance when a medicine must be given to young children. This remedy is most effective in relieving coughs, colds and croup. Obtainable everywhere.—Ady.

SALES AND PRODUCTION

Of Pig Iron Heavy With Gains Over Earlier Month.

Sales of pig iron during March for delivery the remainder of this year have amounted to fully 275,000 tons, says the Cleveland Iron Trade Review. Following this very heavy business, there is a lull along the low-lake, but prices are firm. The weakness in the Buffalo district has disappeared and in eastern Pennsylvania there is considerable activity in basic pig iron. In finished lines, mills are being operated at the greatest possible capacity. Extremely high prices are being paid. Among the products which have recorded the highest prices during the year is shafting, which warehouses are now selling at $70 per ton, more than the prices which prevailed a year ago.

Pig iron production in March amounted to 3,326,879 tons, compared with 3,078,548 tons in February. a gain of 248,331 tons. The daily average production in March was 107,319, a gain of 1,162 tons over the daily average for February. There were 315 active stacks in March, compared with 312 in February.

Mining by Movies Pictures. Moving pictures showing the sociological work being done in the mining towns of Ellsworth and Cokeweb, Washington county, are being exhibited at different points throughout the state.

DAILY PRODUCTION

And Daily Consumption of Coal Kept Within Very Close Range.

The recently completed statistics show an average daily tonnage of coal consumed on the basis of 365 days in the year of 1,450,000 tons. The average tonnage on the basis of 300 days in the year was 1,760,000 tons. Perhaps this might be said to represent coal sold rather than coal used, as so much of the use goes on regardless of Sundays and holidays. The soft coal average daily tonnage was 1,197,000 tons for 365 days, while the basis of 300 days in the year the sales might be put down as 1,456,000 tons per day. Very little stock of either grade of coal is held, certainly not over 30 days' production in the entire country.

To Make Electric Steel. The Charleston Steel Company, Charleston, W. Va., has been incorporated with $400,000 capital to build a plant for the manufacture of steel by electric furnaces from scrap metal. Contracts have been let for two furnaces having a daily capacity of 75 gross tons.
